Council Told Balkans Strife Urgent Matter

By Robert Manning
LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., July 15—(UPI)—The United States warned the United Nations Security Council today that the smoldering Balkans dispute is becoming so urgent the council must drop all other business until it solves the case. Alarmed by reports of guerrilla "invasion" of Greece, the long-time best-friend of the United States said the situation had become "a matter of genuine urgency."

AMERICAN DELEGATE HERE—
Said: "The United States is compelled to devote itself steadily to the Balkans crisis beginning with this afternoon's meeting. The urgent consideration of the UN's 180-page force, the problem of Trieste and the impending Anglo-Egyptian de-

20,000 Citizens Flock To Exhibition Opening

Edmonton's summer fair got away to an excellent start Monday as more than 20,000 patrons thronged through the turnstiles to see the greatest array of amusement and educational displays ever shown here.

THE ACTUAL attendance on opening day was 30,000, compared with 28,000 on the opening day of last year's fair, a decrease of 2,275. Calgary is the only city on the western circuit that has shown a par mutual play increase so far this year.

Concessions throughout the huge grounds did a roaring trade as they urged patrons to purchase the latest in canned apples, and the many-colored and flavored soft drinks.

Alaska Fire Rages On 70-Mile Front

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 15—(AP)—The raging Kenai peninsula forest fire moved forward on a 70-mile front today as winds which permitted backfiring at the start of the flames forced firemen to withdraw from the threatened fishing village of Kenai.

The tiny village stood only six miles from the flames after the blazes had run a 40-foot destructive front.

Smoke from the fire hung over the village, the fire chief said. The flames were ample sufficient to handle the need. *

Hit by Lightning

PHILADELPHIA, July 15—(AP)—A bolt of lightning stripped the stem from the back of Antonio Perdicaro, 39, burning him slightly.

Kenai, about 30 miles to the south of Kenai, also lay in the path of the flames.

Mountbatten Non-Committal On Wedding

EDINBURGH, July 15—(AP)—A flash flood and high winds struck this city of 7,000 last night, causing heavy property damage, the state highway patrol reported. The former was caused when he inverted a utility pole blown down on his property.

THESE OFFICIALS, all in close touch with the foreign office and cabinet opinion, said at least nine Eastern European states would join in such a program, which would be "getting married soon."

THE question was asked by a member of the Argyle and Sutherland's Association club, where the couple were visiting on the first day of their visit to Scotland.

They listed the states as the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Finland, Yugoslavia and Albania. None is attached to the party.

Mountbatten's non-committal reply was misheard by some who thought he had named the wedding date.

It has been reported in London that the wedding will take place during October.

Entitled yesterday to a maximum of 20 years in the state penitentiary, he said:

FEATURES of such a program would be interchange of food and raw materials, technical credit arrangements and planned production of the most needed consumer goods.

Prime Minister Not "Lord God Almighty"

By Douglas How

OITAWA, July 15—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King was informed sharply yesterday that he was not "Lord God Almighty" and was later appealed to as "Caesar" as the Commons wrangled through the long-anticipated debate on a redistribution bill that would increase membership from 245 to 253.

REPETITIVE charges of "political gerrymandering" were flung at the government by an opposition which had drawn the Minister from his nearby constituency to deny to the Macdonalds that he ever interfered with the recommendations of the all-party house committee whose work resulted in the bill.

It was Mr. MacDonnell who told Mr. King he was not "Lord God Almighty" as they clashed during one of a number of Progressive Conservative attacks on the bill.

FOUR ALDERMEN voted for immediate action on the proposal, and five favored consideration of the bill as presented. The remaining aldermen—C. E. Garipy, KC, and Blaset, KC, were absent.

Mr. King was asked the question of opposition to the locating of a hotel on the site near the administration building. He said he had been approached by Mr. McLean, controller of aviation, to change the bill.

Mr. King said he had been proposed to the hotel syndicate by Mr. McLean, in charge that it was "full of injustices" to the "Progressive Conservative party." It is Mr. Stewart (CCP-Winnipeg North) who argued against alterations in CCP riding, calling them "unfair" to the Bracken party.

MR. KING'S ROLE as "Caesar" was assumed by Mr. Dieleben, baker (PC-Lake Louise) whose riding, he said, was being changed to favour him. Mr. King, however, recalled, Mr. King, then the opposition, had appealed to the late Mr. St. John, then the Liberal leader, to prevent changes in his riding, calling them "unfair" to the Bracken party.

The debate ended temporally at the dinner adjournment after five hours. The opposition, however, left the house with two proposed amendments to prevent any change in the bill. The other, by Mr. D. Fulton, Progressive Conservative, the other to prevent union of the Yoho and Kootenay and Lillooet River districts of the Northwest Territories into a riding which George Blair (PC-Yukon) said would be "a monstrosity" larger than Ontario.

Council Told

hours until a solution is achieved. Johnson withdrew an informal American demand that the council plunge immediately into the Greek question at this morning's session, but it became apparent that the demands were too far apart for a scheduling discussion of the issue.

Council president Oscar Lange said the Greek question would be postponed, "try to take care of the matter in the schedule for next week."

He said, however, that the United States government considered the Greek question so urgent that beginning with the council's afternoon meeting the members would be available to the Greek delegation before delegates "see we have achieved a solution."

In his address, Lange was asked if the Greek question was being considered in the border area of Greece.

He said the Greek delegation had been invited to a meeting of the C.N.R. driving crew who are carrying out a "peacekeeping" mission in the border area of Greece.

Radio Report to Die

In accord with the usual custom against which The Edmonton Bulletin warned some days ago, the report of the parliamentary committee on radio broadcasting will not be debated on the floor of the House of Commons. It has been tabled, but it will not be discussed. Parliament will be given no opportunity to either approve or disapprove its recommendations. None of its suggestions need be translated into law.

This practice of bringing up the radio report late in the session that it is hastily shoved to one side to make room for what is considered more pressing business is not only highly discourteous to the members of a committee who put in long hours to sift difficult and conflicting evidence, but is altogether unsatisfactory to the Canadian people.

The entire country is interested in radio and radio policy and parliament should have every opportunity to fully discuss these matters that are important to the constituents of every member.

As this newspaper has already pointed out, the report was disappointing in that it failed to divorce the controlling functions of the CBC from its productive functions. It failed to end the absurd situation under which the CBC is permitted to control its privately-owned competitors and thereby becomes an iniquitous monopoly.

But the report did contain features which might have modified these abuses. Its recommendations, for instance, that greater leniency be shown in granting broadcasting licenses and that the parliamentary committee itself be established as a permanent committee to keep a watchful eye on the CBC were sound and intelligent proposals.

The government may, of course, still implement these particular suggestions. But it is hardly likely when the report itself is not to be debated or offered to the house for adoption.

Surely the national radio is important enough to merit more lively attention in the legislative chambers of Canada. And the parliamentary committee could easily have been set up months before it was, if the last days of a session are always too crowded to discuss these matters.

Why the Noise?

The unpleasant and unnecessary habit indulged by wedding parties of travelling through the main streets with motor horns going at full blast appears to have been revived in Edmonton.

Some months ago there was a vigorous protest over this sort of thing and the practice seemed to have been abandoned for a time. But now the celebrants are again at it. And the raucous shrieks continue to bring bliss is heard again all too frequently.

These performances, of course, constitute a public nuisance and the police can easily halt them. But what leaves the observer speechless is why anyone should want to act like this at all.

It is not to be presumed that this behaviour represents the specific wish of the average bride and groom. Usually these actors in a wedding are only too happy to make themselves as inconspicuous as possible.

Those who are happily married have no need to blow horns to demonstrate their satisfaction. Those who are doubtful about it have no reason for such timid manifestations of hilarity.

It is probably the work, usually, of certain wits who manage to intrude themselves into every wedding party and who are victims of the delusion that marriage is a particularly frivolous joke to be celebrated with cheap and vulgar exhibitionism.

This is, of course, one of the things that are the matter with marriage—this tendency to regard the occasion as sort of a temporary hinge.

The whole business is ribald and stupid and in exceedingly bad taste. And the police should make a point of doing something about it.

A Loophole Closed

Some weeks ago, four young men killed a shopkeeper in Toronto when they were robbing him. They escaped the death penalty because the jury took the position that the killing was not deliberate but accidental. In brief, the jury held that these young men could not be convicted of murder because no intent to murder had been proved.

One of the amendments to the criminal code, recently adopted by the House of Commons, will render that equivocal argument ineffective in future and similar cases.

This amendment provides that where death ensues as a result of the use or discharge of a weapon in the possession of an offender during or subsequent to the commission of certain specified crimes, "whether the offender means or not death to ensue, or knows or not that death is likely to ensue," the offender shall be guilty of murder.

The specified crimes are treason, piracy, escape or rescue from prison or lawful custody, resisting lawful arrest, murder, rape, indecent assault, forcible abduction, robbery, burglary and arson.

Thus is translated into specific law a tradition that has always been more or less accepted in British legal practice, that death caused to a victim during commission of a violent crime shall be regarded as murder.

The four young killers in Toronto got away with their crime because this view was not more than a tradition.

Now that it has become written law, this loophole, through which several criminals have been able to escape justice, has been closed.

It was a very proper and timely amendment.

Resurrected Treasure

John Dickson Carr, himself an astute and entertaining writer of mystery tales, has been preparing a biography of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. In the course of his researches in the life of the eminent creator of Sherlock Holmes, he came across a box in the vault of a country bank.

Detective story addicts will learn with delight and disdain that this box contains a considerable budget of unpublished Sherlock Holmes manuscripts.

This resurrection of these presumptive literary treasures is all the more welcome because the production of this particular style of fiction appears to be somewhat on the wane.

Fertile tellers of mystery tales, such as Dorothy Sayers and some others, have recently announced that they have left the murder field forever. Indeed, the renunciation of detective stories seems to be a consistent step in literary evolution. A young author builds himself a following with stories of this kind and, having secured an audience, usually proceeds then to establish his reputation with more serious work.

As a result, confirmed readers of mystery stories are usually away ahead of production and are left panting for more.

It is not proposed to discuss the merits or demerits of this class of fiction here.

The fact is that people seem to want it and certainly read it in wholesale quantities.

The discovery of these new Doyle manuscripts will not only increase the output, but may give an impetus to those hundreds of writers who have been inspired by the matchless yarns of Sherlock Holmes.

By this time, Margaret Sanger must realize that housewives of Churchill's country will fight her baby ban proposal in front of the cradles, behind the nursery doors and around the prams.

Military Training Bill

BY DOROTHY THOMPSON

When former Supreme Court Justice Owen Roberts invited me to join a Citizens' Committee for passage of the universal military training bill, I found myself in a dilemma and, as usual, took no stand—negative or positive.

I do not disagree with Mr. Thompson's analysis of the seriousness of the situation. His estimate that the Soviets may have the A-bomb, I believe, is as good as anyone's. I certainly will believe it soon.

They already have the atomic bomb, and the German technical skill to perfect their weapons.

The appearance of the atomic bomb, we per se, can be exaggerated. But we have another bomb of almost equal destructive power, and that is the atom bomb which the Soviets would present not as a great problem to the U.S.S.R.

Therefore, Senator Taft's proposal is a wise one. It is not a shooting war, but a political one.

AT PRESENT, WE ARE NOT IN A SHOOTING WAR, but, if we can win the right political war, both the Soviets and we will be secure. If we wage the right political war, we shall have a moral position—the right to defend ourselves and our allies.

It is not a shooting war we should fear. I do not believe there is any real peace. That is the great problem.

But we must make sure we shall find it. I do not believe there is any real peace. That is the great problem.

AT PRESENT, WE ARE NOT IN A SHOOTING WAR, but, if we can win the right political war, both the Soviets and we will be secure. If we wage the right political war, we shall have a moral position—the right to defend ourselves and our allies.

SPORTS

HAROLD DEAN, Sports Editor

HOWARD HAAK, IN CHARGE of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball school which opened at Renfrew Park this morning, isn't backward in admitting he's searching for talent—and the younger the better. "Sure, we're looking for prospects," said the Brooklyn Northwest Pacific scout, "and this looks like a fertile field."

The "school" staff, advised in Edmonton yesterday, includes other members of the party being Ken Johnson of San Bernardino, Calif.; Charles Weisheit, Montreal Royals pitcher; and Nick Mariana of Great Falls, who covers the State of Montana for the Dodgers.

Haak, incidentally, didn't waste any time on the road yesterday, for he says he travelled 230 miles in just under 11 hours. The school will continue through to Wednesday night, and the intention being to spend that evening with the juniors at their own Clarke Stadium diamond. The school is open to all boys in the province, with coaches and managers being especially welcome, and it is free.

First Major League School

THIS IS THE FIRST BASEBALL SCHOOL held in Western Canada sponsored by a major league club, but the Dodgers have run schools in Montreal and Welland, Ont. Haak, a former pro catcher, will instruct in hitting, catching and infield play.

Ken Johnson, high school coach, according to Haak, is an expert in base running and sliding. Johnson has been associated with the Dodgers since 1940 and this year ran four camps in California and Alberta. Chuck Weisheit, who towers 6 feet, 5 inches, of course will attend to the pitchers' lessons. He was in charge of the recent school at San Mateo, Calif. Nick Mariana will help with pitching and general instruction.

The last school held was at Spokane, a member of the Western International League and an affiliate of the Brooklyn organization. However, a baseball clinic was just held at Great Falls and it drew 200 boys, with ages ranging between 10 and 13.

Interest in Baseball Growing

BASEBALL, ACCORDING TO HAAK, "is definitely on the up-trend, the growing interest amongst youngsters being especially noticeable in recent months." He attributes this in part at least, to the recent re-birth of the junior baseball leagues. The Spokane club is having its best season in history.

Haak has seven schools under his direction—Spokane and Everett in Washington, Vancouver (Wash.), Edmonton, Billings and Butte in Montana, and Murray, which is close to Salt Lake, Utah.

Dodgers have only two Canadian clubs in their organization—Three Rivers, Quebec and Montreal. They have nine D. clubs, four C. clubs, one B. club, one A. club, one B. club, one A. club, one B. club, one AA—Mobile and Fort Worth and two AAA—Montreal and St. Paul.

Increase in Betting First Day

THE INCREASE IN THE MUTUEL HANDLE on Sunday over the opening day's races of the 1946 Exhibitions, is somewhat surprising in view of the trend elsewhere which shows a tendency toward a slight decline this season.

Yesterday's figure of $67,251 was considerably over the 1944 total of $51,700. On the first day in '45 $37,154 went through the windows. First day in the 1945 exhibition must have been the most attraction from the bettors, a total of $70,250 being reported on the feature event. The sixth race was next with $5,782.

Monday's quinella pool amounted to $7,756, with $500 tickets out, each returning $11.78. Daily double pool was $4,800 with 200 tickets sharing in the split and each worth $18.75. Nancy L. M. Van Huisen's Calgary entry which ran second in the sixth race, was the most heavily backed horse of the day. She carried $24.60.

Bill Davis Tops Canadian Shots

The Dominion's outstanding marksman qualifying for the 1947 All Star team of the Canadian Senior Boys Association has been announced here by the CSBA, sponsors of the nation-wide shooting contest.

Based on scores compiled in official matches the past season which called for shooting in the presence of a judge, the 20 qualifying contestants chalked up good scores in the 1946 competition. The Edmonton Rifle Association and current holder of the indoor four-round rifle shooting honors, shot the best totals. The 20 marksmen were evenly divided between newcomers and riflemen who retained their titles from the previous year. The competition continued as the "shootings" proceeded by capturing nine of the 10 team titles.

The 1947 team score of 1969.3 is a slight edge over last year's 1893 point mark.

Urge Research

Alcoholism Causes

Edmonton members of Alcoholics Anonymous were urged Sunday by Dr. A. E. Archer, of Lamont, to continue a clinical research among the members, practitioners, psychologists and sociologists, as part of a proposed scientific study to determine the causes of alcoholism.

A past president of the Canadian Medical Association, Dr. Archer was a guest at the 10th annual Sunday meeting of the Edmonton group in Chapter House on 108 Street.

Admitting that medical science has had, to date, very little success in combating alcoholism, the speaker urged the Edmonton group, with other groups in Canada, to prepare case histories of its members that would be turned over to the medical men for study and analysis.

"If we could obtain a hundred direct cases of alcoholism, we could learn just what factors occur in so often that they are not just alcoholics," Dr. Archer explained. "The histories would not be signed, the names would not be mentioned."

Canadian medical men are ready to prepare the questionnaires to be filled out.

The study group that is the scientific method of clinical research, which has led to the last 50 years to a better understanding of the great problems confronting public health authorities throughout the world.

He described the painstaking research that led to discovery of such drugs as penicillin.

Once alcoholism seems to be an allergy, Dr. Archer said that insulin does not cure diabetes but it does control it. He believes this disease to lead a normal life through right control. He foresees a day when, through research, the alcoholics will also lead a normal life and practice the cure of alcoholics.

The speaker was assured by the Edmonton group of wholehearted cooperation in the proposed case history program.

American Way

Americans, especially at board ship, are great corner-cutters. We are neither unwilling nor unwilling to sacrifice the singing, dancing, deep sports, fun and, when the ship lets loose, the girl in our arms. Or we want to meet up with strangers, buy them a drink, claim them to be our wives and, ten minutes later, and ten minutes after that, produce our wives and a plan.

So there we are, first night out, jumping up and down on the bumbuckle swing, yelling and shrieking, Americans only for the corners, treasuring a measure on the dance floor with all the ease and relaxation of a man with a broomstick. With us are Joe, this, and Harry, that, and I want you to meet that tall Bill, born in St. Louis, who is bringing another round for my friends.

The English all there looking bored, shocked and supercilious.

Are they? Not on your life, British.

What they are doing is to get up on the dance floor, jump up and down, whooping, hollering, and sliding on the dance floor, with all the grace and agility of their mothers.

See that red-faced guy over there with his wife up around his neck, with his pants standing and waving, with his fat same old arms in a kind of Indian war dance? He must be one of those loud Americans, I say. Not a nice life, chums. That is a respectable businessman from Manchester, England, and this is his night to howl.

Agriculture Dept. Has Fair Display

Minature farm buildings, illustrated transparencies, photographs and cartoons illustrating the advantages to western farmers of diversified agriculture are features of the Dominion department of agriculture's display at the Edmonton Exposition this week.

In this 50-foot display, a series of illustrated panels urge the farmer to raise more vegetables and eggs. One panel carries the slogan "Raise Another Hog for Britain" and quotes the findings of a recent survey of hog raising in Alberta, that "the average price of barley at Edmonton (1938-1946) is 52 cents per bushel, this season grain fed hogs would have given an average net return of 81 cents per bushel."

Other panels emphasize the advantages of beautifying the farm home; the assurance overseas market for eggs; the dairy herd as a source of income; the use of farm-grown foods and the need for more Canadian-produced wool.

Information on fruits and other agricultural subjects are available for the asking at this display, which the official in charge is F. W. Nisbett, director of the farm and extension division, Dominion department of agriculture, Ottawa.

11-Rat Family Is Exterminated

EDMONTON, July 15—(CP)—A 11-rat family, which had been in residence in a car of the Royal American show was exterminated in Calgary last week. It was announced today by J. H. Brown, provincial entomologist.

The rats were all members of one litter. It is believed that a pregnant mother rat was in the trap when it was set and had given birth to 10 young. Provincial authorities believe that all rats with the midway show were exterminated with the killing of the mother rat and her family.

The female was a black rat, the male a white rat, and the female is a carrier of the bubonic plague.

No evidence of the disease was discovered in any of the rodents found at Calgary.

Mr. Brown stated that elaborate precautions were being taken in the midway to prevent the rats from getting into food.

Ministers, CCF Clash

'Yappy' House Session As Tempers Shorten

OTTAWA, July 15—(CP)—"Yap, yap" said the big, red-faced man. "Yap, yap" said the gaunt, blue-faced man.

WITH EMBROIDERED versions of these statements, Veterans Minister Mackenzie and Stanley Knowles (CCF) exchanged words in the House of Commons last night in an effort to settle a dispute between the two parties.

Mr. Knowles said that labor department investigators had drawn up a report to the Royal Commission study on the case.

Mr. Mackenzie said the labor department was the best branch of the body which would serve no useful purpose.

Mr. Mackenzie said he was "a bit of a sentimental ping." He and Mr. Mitchell had been working for labor years before Mr. Knowles had been born.

Mr. Knowles could not attend the "quality of retirement" debate.

Other bands organized earlier included the Royal Canadian Dragoons, Royal Canadian Dragoon Cavalry Band at Shilo, Manitoba; Royal Canadian Regiment Band at Brandon, Manitoba; and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Band at Regina, Saskatchewan.

Alfred Hartley, 1270 10th street, was a cook in an Edmonton hospital SAI unit. He was an employee of Canadian Pacific Airlines, Vancouver, B.C.

Mr. Knowles said he had come to Canada from the United States to work for the Canadian government.

Why Grow Old?

Most men will not ever live Barker's whisks: Today's "Why Grow Old?" column is devoted to a few masculine exercises such as the push-up Lex Barker is doing above.

By Josephine L. Lomax

Useful men have missed "Why Grow Old" for the past two days, you know that I am bringing you exercises for the body. The first group this week. Mother has already gotten her medicine. Today father is in the kitchen and daughter is next on the list.

The chest, arm and shoulder muscles are largely involved so far as a man's appearance is concerned, and they are also closely correlated with his gait. These muscles are the most used and arm muscles have become flabby. I think this is subconsciously tied in with the desire to be strong to protect himself and his family. Most middle-aged men also have very strong muscles, but if your family is not troubled with the latter, two abdominal exercises will be in order. These will be in use tomorrow when his daughter's routine will be outlined. These are prescribed for health's sake.

Today we concentrate on the chest, shoulder and arms. 1. Lie prone on the floor, curve the hand that is not on the chest under and pull the body up until the weight is on the hands. This weight in this position is supported by the hands and the toes. There is an effort to hold the body up by the poor unfortunate fathers and mothers helpless to make their youngsters with whom they should do all they can to do, do the things they should not do.

The law of the majority is in the world, but it is up to the father and mother to make sure that Johnny and Mary from the hoodlums and the hoodlums from the poor unfortunate fathers and mothers helpless to make their youngsters with whom they should do all they can to do, do the things they should not do.

These two exercises plus the two posture exercises and daughter's abdominal exercise make a good routine. However, if father has a bad shoulder he can do one too. It is an exercise which men can do to their backs. Lie on the floor on your back. Curl your toes under the end of the bed, divan, or a chair, or ask the wife to hold them. Lift the heels to the shoulders. Return to starting position. Keep your back straight.

2. Stand erect. Pretend that you are punching a punching bag if you have one, use it if you have one, use a chair. If not, imagine you have a punching bag.

DOROTHY DIX says:

Parents Helpless To Discipline Child

Probably there is no other phrase in the world that so dread the thoughts of parents as "Helpless to discipline their child." For that is the ultimate silence all discussions and pots and pans can bring about. There are the poor unfortunate fathers and mothers helpless to make their youngsters with whom they should do all they can to do, do the things they should not do.

The law of the majority is in the world, but it is up to the parents to do something about it. For while it is true that no one father or mother can know all the ways of the young, there are certain definite steps that the straight and narrow path, the eminently parenthetical of any community can be found.

NOR WOULD this curtail the youngsters. It would not put them on a same and safe footing. If parents can't do anything but decent clothes for their daughters, we should have them. If they can't do the same as the other girls in their class, accept it. It is better to have them grow up with the knowledge that they are not the best, than to have them grow up with the knowledge that they are the best.

And so millions of fathers and mothers bring their hands in and heads down and say their children headed for the Devil, when they are bound to stumble, but they feel they can do nothing about it. If they can't do the best, try and pleadings and arguments and their youngsters return the invariable answer, "All I did was to be born as it is just that they mass them off.

And certainly enough, otherwise intelligent parents seem to have overlooked the fact that the youngsters have themselves turned out to be the best. The problem of how to get our children back into bounds, instead of letting them go wild, is the problem of parents. It is for parents to get together and organize themselves into clubs, with steel-bound rules and regulations to control their own communities. For while it is true that no one father or mother can know all the ways of the young, there are certain definite steps that the straight and narrow path, the eminently parenthetical of any community can be found.

Parents would this curtail the youngster's rights?

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Children often act wild and unpredictable at about 5 years of age. They just need guidance on an individual basis and protection and guidance. I am going to shout about what they do with a realistic laugh!

They do not hesitate to wish their parents dead and they express the intent of killing any playmate who does them wrong.

This behavior seems terrifying to the placid, peaceful parents. Children are born throughinely wild. They have not learned enough in their short lives to know what is right. In fact, instead, they are expressing their own needs for which they have no other outlet.

Unquestionably, they do feel some sort of parental protection. They feel at times completely helpless under their domination. They are not able to do what they are able to do, but they are unable to act as they please. They may be mad enough to do what they feel is right.

But they know their limitations. They don't hurt people. They don't do anything that would be good for them. They become whole little devils.

And it would make the children grow up with the knowledge that they are not the best, than to have them grow up with the knowledge that they are the best.

And so millions of fathers and mothers bring their hands in and heads down and say their children headed for the Devil, when they are bound to stumble, but they feel than to deny them an outlet. Then they are a danger to the child and to the rest of the family.
